MICK'S LAST RIDE

The final chapter: Bikers accompany Mick Thompson on his journey to New Southgate Crematorium

Bikers pay poignant tribute to popular comrade

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

SCORES of motorbike outriders, some from as far away as Switzerland and Germany, formed part of the funeral procession for a Haringey biker.

Denim-clad members of motorcycle clubs from the UK and overseas formed the cortege as they attended the funeral of 64-year-old grandfather Mick Thompson, a member of the London chapter of the Mongols biker group and formerly the Hertfordshire-based Outcasts.

His coffin was carried on a specially made trailer pulled by a three-wheeled trike.

The procession travelled the five miles from his home, in Greyhound Road, Tottenham, to New Southgate Crematorium, in Brunswick Road, on Wednesday afternoon last week.

More than 100 mourners, including family, friends and members of the biker brotherhood, gathered to pay their respects and give a send-off to Mick, who died after losing his battle against cancer.

Following behind the trike on his father's treasured chopper motorbike was his eldest son, Kerry, 42.

He and his wife Sima organised the funeral, which they had spoken to Mick about before he passed away last month.

"We spoke about it with him before he died and he said that was what he wanted," Kerry said.

"He loved being on his bike and riding around. He built his own bike years ago as well as bikes for other people," he added.

Mick had five children and five grandchildren and has bequeathed his motorbike to his three-year-old grandson Jacob.

"Jacob doesn't understand yet that Mick has gone, so he keeps saying, 'Where is grandpa Mick?'" said Sima.

"To pay tribute we had sewn in a patch saying 'Grandpa' on the back of Jacob's jacket," she added.

Mick had lived in Tottenham for nearly 40 years and during that time he helped a lot of people in the community.

"He always made time for other people and helped to build their lives again. He was well respected by many people," Kerry said.

Barry Hollingsworth, 56, from Hackney, known as Bas to his friends, knew Mick for more than 35 years. They met in the Outcasts biker group.

"We grew to be very good friends and brothers," he said.

"Mick was an absolutely dedicated biker, in every sense of the word, even up until the last couple of weeks until he couldn't be ride anymore."

They used to meet up two or three times a week in the biker group and often rode to Epping Forest.

"The procession was what Mick would have wanted, definitely. It was a bit of an old-school-biker kind of funeral with Mick coming down on the trailer behind the trike," added Mr Hollingsworth.

"And that was Mick through and through – he was a man of honour and integrity, you couldn't fault him."

All will be lovely in new school garden

PRIMARY school children will enjoy their own home-grown food after an area of their playground is transformed into an edible garden.

Pupils at Stamford Hill school, in Berkeley Road, Tottenham, will be able to plant and harvest from the garden, which will be funded by money won from the People's Postcode Lottery.

A composting area and a range of salad produce, root vegetables, herbs and fruit trees will be planted.

Workshops on healthy eating will run throughout the year and pupils will be given gardening lessons as well as cooking lessons from Chefs Adopt a School, a charity that encourages healthy eating among young children.

Man charged over attack on Alexteen

A MAN accused of robbing a 100-year-old woman as she returned home from a prayer meeting in Wood Green has been sent for trial.

Jawad Naser, 37, of Gladesmore Road, South Tottenham, appeared at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court last Thursday. He is alleged to have robbed Alexteen Roberts, pictured, of her handbag containing cash and personal items in the Sherboro Road area of South Tottenham on Tuesday, August 23.

He was remanded in custody to appear at Wood Green Crown Court on Thursday, October 13.

Burrowes warns over boundary change plan

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Southgate MP David Burrowes vows to fight plans to "dismember" his constituency as part of a proposed major shake-up of parliamentary boundaries.

The Boundary Commission is proposing to scrap the Enfield Southgate seat as part of moves to cut the number of MPs from 650 to 600.

A new seat called Finchley and Southgate might be created instead, including residents living in the Winchmore Hill, Southgate and Southgate Green wards as well as in Barnet.

However, Mr Burrowes says the proposals will break Enfield Southgate into pieces.

The Conservative MP said: "The particular proposal affecting Enfield Southgate gives the appearance of someone throwing up the wards in the air and see where they land. Enfield Southgate is dismembered and its ward parts tacked on to five constituencies."

He said the constituency he won from Labour's Stephen Twigg in 2005 demands more respect.

Residents living in Cockfosters would be represented by a Chipping Barnet and Mill Hill MP.

Another change would see voters in Bowes ward becoming part of the Hornsey and Wood Green constituency.

Mr Burrowes added: "The real risk of these current proposals is that three MPs will only have a minority interest in Enfield."

Enfield North would disappear under the proposals and instead there could be a new constituency called Enfield.

It would include people living in the Chase, Enfield Highway, Enfield Lock, Grange, Highlands, Southbury, Town and Turkey Street wards.

The current Enfield North Labour MP Joan Ryan said: "It's a bitter blow for Enfield. I think Enfield's got a very bad deal out of this."

She branded the proposed boundary lines as "arbitrary", drawn up without any consideration of community boundaries.

She said: "Splitting up of traditional wards makes it very difficult for constituencies who have to relate to different councils and different police borough commanders."

She said the most sensible option would be to leave the current seats in the borough of Enfield as they are and urged constituents to make their views known in the consultation, which is running for 12 weeks until December 5.

'Dismembered': David Burrowes is concerned about the future of constituents in Enfield Southgate

The Edmonton constituency would be made up of voters living in the Bush Hill Park, Edmonton Green, Haselbury, Jubilee, Lower Edmonton, Palmers Green, Ponders End and Upper Edmonton wards.

'Meridian Water can be a catalyst for the community'

THE number of people chasing jobs in Enfield is continuing to drop, according to latest government figures.

In July, there were 3,654 people on Jobseeker's Allowance, down 606 or 15 per cent on the same time last year.

Nick Steward, district operations manager for Enfield, Kensington and Chelsea and Westminster for the Department for Work and Pensions, said the drop matched the decrease in unemployment nationally.

He said it was the right time for job hunters to look out for Christmas opportunities and boost skills for future developments in the borough, with Meridian Water getting under way in Edmonton next spring.

Mr Steward said people should get ready, perhaps by using the help on offer at the borough's job centres to get a foot in the door with companies likely to be involved in the project.

"We have got jobs from when the first spade hits the ground," he said. "We want to encourage Enfield projects and for people not to just watch it from over the fence."

"It helps a community to flourish and we want to encourage the community to get a bit of that."

"We want this to be a catalyst for Edmonton and Ponders End."

What's cooking?: Richard Copsey and Kate Smith, owners of Holtwhites Bakery, have been shortlisted in the Londoners Loaf category of the Urban Food awards

The taste of success

A TRIO of Enfield firms are cooking up a storm in the finals of a competition celebrating food and drink.

Holtwhites Bakery is on the shortlist in the Londoners Loaf category of the Urban Food awards for its popular Chase sourdough loaf.

The public were invited to vote for their favourite suppliers before a panel of food experts unveil the winners tonight.

Holtwhites Bakery started five years ago in a kitchen on Holtwhites Hill, Enfield, before moving to premises in nearby Chase Side.

Forty Hall Community Vineyard is shortlisted in the most inspiring producer and Capital Growth's growing enterprise categories.

The vineyard was started in 2009 and is thought to be London's only commercial-scale vineyard.

It is run and managed by volunteers who produced 1,200 bottles of 2015 vintage white wine.

They are hoping to sell a sparkling wine next year.

The vineyard supplies vine leaves to the third shortlisted Enfield firm, Gourmet Goat, which uses them to make dolmades (stuffed grape leaves).

Nick and Nadia Stokes, who are based in Mafeking Road, Enfield, set up Gourmet Goat to celebrate eastern Mediterranean cuisine.

They are also regulars at Enfield Food Festival and will be at Forty Hall's Apple Fair on October 2.

A Minor celebrity...

CLASSIC car enthusiasts gathered for the arrival of a special vintage vehicle in Enfield this week as it completed the latest leg of a fundraising drive for charity.

A restored 1963 four-door Morris Minor saloon has been zigzagging its way across Britain for the past two weeks in a 3,500-mile marathon trek from John o' Groats to Land's End.

The car is visiting all 53 branches of the Morris Minor Owners' Clubs (MMOC) with selected members from every branch driving a stage each before handing over the keys relay-style to the next branch.

Money raised from sponsorship of the journey will be donated to Marie Curie Cancer Care.

A crowd gathered to welcome the car as it arrived at Whitewebbs Transport Museum, in Whitewebbs Lane, on Monday night after completing the latest 53-mile stage from Saffron Walden, in Essex.

The museum, which houses vintage vehicles, is the headquarters of the North London and Middlesex branch of the MMOC.

Driver Marcel Riciti, from the branch, handed over the key for the next stage of the journey to Hertfordshire MMOC.

The car is scheduled to reach Land's End on Sunday, October 2.

David Burrows, chairman of MMOC's North London and Middlesex branch, said: "Morris Minor Owners' Clubs are celebrating their 40th anniversary this year and Marie Curie is its chosen charity."

The North London and Middlesex branch has already raised £549 towards it this year, partly from the proceeds of a vintage motor day held at Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield, earlier this month, Mr Burrows added.

Mark Winton, head of community fundraising at Marie Curie, said: "The car run, which will make stops at all Marie Curie hospices as well as the club's various branches, is a wonderful idea to create an even greater bond between both of our organisations."

It's a hit: Richard Blyth, Gary Manzi, David Taylor, Mick Nugent and Dave Fitzgerald prepare to tee off

Golfers swing away in Sue's memory – whatever the weather

FLASH floods didn't stop golfers from taking part in an annual charity event at Enfield Golf Club last week to raise money for pioneering research into brain tumours.

A total of £9,600 was raised for the charity In Sue's Name, which was set up in memory of Sue Blasotta, 42, who died from brain tumours six weeks after being diagnosed in 2010.

Sue's father, David Taylor of Wynchgate, Winchmore

Hill, was relieved that the tournament at the club, in Old Park Road South, Enfield, was still able to go ahead on Friday despite thunderstorms the previous night.

"We were very lucky on the day as other tournaments in the area were cancelled due to the weather, so my dear daughter up in the heavens was working her magic," said Mr Taylor.

A total of 41 golfers took part and there was also a raffle and an auction followed by dinner in the evening with music at the golf club.

David Burrows, MP for Enfield Southgate, also took part on the day and had postponed a parliamentary committee meeting in America to attend the event.

"There's a lot of people who die from brain cancer and other forms of cancer who are under the age of 45 – it kills young people all the time, but it doesn't get the money from government," said Mr Taylor.

The charity is hoping to raise £1million over ten years for the Blizzard Institute, in Whitechapel, where one day's research costs £2,740.

"We hope to plan more events and attract more good people who wish to help and raise money for research into brain tumours," added Mr Taylor.

HUNDREDS of runners enjoyed their own mini-Olympics as they participated in the Mayor of Enfield's annual charity fun run on Sunday.

The event, held in the grounds of Forty Hill, in Forty Hill, was to raise funds for a music festival showcasing up-and-coming musicians across the borough.

All the money raised is donated to mayor Bernadette Lappage's chosen charity, Enfield Sounds Great.

There were three events – a 10km run, a 3km fun run and a 3km fun walk for those who fancied a slower paced race.

"I'd like to thank each and every unsung hero who took part at the weekend," said Mrs Lappage.

"It was a brilliant event which will raise thousands of pounds for Enfield Sounds Great and will enable us to do vital work around the borough."

'They did not consult and they didn't listen'

A COSTLY six-month pilot scheme to provide extra GP appointments in Enfield has fallen woefully short of its target, prompting criticism from a pressure group who warned that it wouldn't work.

Enfield CCG (Clinical Commissioning Group) funded extra appointments at a cost of £612,000 at Green Lanes Surgeries, in Green Lanes, Winchmore Hill, and at Evergreen Primary Care Centre, in Smythe Close, Edmonton.

The pilot, which ran from October last year until March, provided appointments from 4pm to 8pm, Monday to Friday, and for eight hours on a Saturday – but only if patients travelled to the two surgeries.

The idea was opposed by the Enfield Over 50s Forum health watchdog, who warned that elderly people, parents with young children and patients with mental health problems would struggle to get there.

Monty Meth, the president of the forum, pictured, said: "They did not consult and they did not listen. Half of the GPs consulted opposed the scheme. It was obvious it would not work. We based our objections on the fact that GPs at 23 of the then 49 Enfield surgeries told us that they opposed the structure of the pilot and together with them we argued that spreading the £612,000 available grant among all the surgeries would yield better results."

The CCG report on this pilot scheme shows that only 6,271 patients were seen by GPs during the extended opening times – just 42 per cent of the target.

Yet a CCG spokesman insisted: "Evaluation of the pilot scheme indicated that patient satisfaction with the service was high, with 85 per cent of patients reporting that they were likely, or extremely likely, to recommend this service to a friend or family member. However, demand for the service was lower than expected."

Nicole gets set to face the heat

Mum prepares for fire walk to raise money for hospital which helped her daughter

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

HISTORICALLY, people have walked through burning coals as a rite of passage – but one mum is doing a "fire walk" to raise money for the hospital which helped her daughter.

Nicole Griffiths's little girl Macie is like any other four-year-old, according to her mum – she loves unicorns, animals and anything pink.

The difference is that Macie has cystic fibrosis, which affects her lungs, digestive system and immune system. She takes antibiotics every day – even when "well" – and has physiotherapy twice a day.

Nicole, 32, of The Fairway, Southgate, has signed up to walk through a six-metre-long path of red hot burning coals to help raise vital funds for the Royal Brompton Hospital, in Chelsea, where Macie was treated recently with intravenous antibiotics for a fortnight.

Nicole said: "Macie is a gorgeous little girl. Everybody loves her, she loves dancing, unicorns and having fun.

"She loves people. She has just started school and has already made a best friend for life.

"We're lucky because it's only the third time Macie's had to go into hospital, but you see some of the little babies and really poorly children in there and it really makes you think.

"People keep saying aren't you scared, but I'm not at all. It's nothing compared to what some of those little babies have to go through every day."

Burning ambition: Mum Nicole Griffiths and her daughter Macie

Macie has started at St Andrew's Primary School, in Chase Road, Southgate.

But since signing up for the fire walk next Tuesday (September 27), she's already raised more than £1000.

Nicole added: "Friends and family have been amazing and even people we don't know have donated. It's overwhelming how kind people have been."

London Borough of Enfield Community Use Letting Opportunity Viewing Day

Enfield Council welcomes Community Groups and Organisations to view two former Park Buildings for the provision of Community Use.

The former Bowling Pavilion and Green at Jubilee Park N9 and the former Boating Pavilion at Pymmes Park N18 have been identified as suitable buildings for community use but all expressions of interest will be considered.

The Buildings will require some investment to bring them back into good order and the Council is looking to a successful organisation or community group to undertake the investment and then to maintain the building in good order. In return, the Council expects to grant a lease for up to 10 years for a rental income.

Potential applicants are invited to attend the following viewing days:

Monday 3rd October 2016

Jubilee Park - 10am to 12pm Pymmes Park - 2pm to 4pm

Wednesday 5th 2016:

Pymmes Park - 10am to 12pm Jubilee Park - 2pm to 4pm

For this opportunity the Council will hold a three-stage process as indicated below.

Stage 1: Viewing days (See above)

Stage 2: Expression of Interest

Applicants wishing to submit an expression of interest should send the following information by email to Tina Heather (Contracts Officer) tina.heather@enfield.gov.uk.

- Name (Individual or Organisation)
- Contact details
- A brief summary (up to 300 words) of the proposal and the community benefits that would result.

Expressions of interest must be received no later than 5pm Wednesday 12th October 2016.

Stage 3:

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges?

Hop to it: Work on the trampoline park could begin in November

Trampoline park plan bounces over hurdle

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

PLANS for an indoor trampoline park have moved a step closer.

A decision to grant formal consent was agreed by Enfield councillors last week, going against the borough's own local planning blueprint, which earmarks the site for industrial use.

Operator Jump In wants to build hundreds of interconnected trampolines, foam pits, padded walls and designated safe play zones for youngsters and toddlers at Lumina Industrial Park, off the A10/Great Cambridge Road in Enfield.

But even though Enfield Council's planning committee approved the application at a meeting last Tuesday, the scheme still has hurdles to overcome before it gets the green light.

Because the application is not for industrial use, the council has to publicly advertise its decision for a three-week period so that businesses and individuals have the opportunity to raise objections should they wish.

If that goes without a hitch, then the scheme can proceed.

Councillor Toby Simon, chairman of the planning committee, said: "The committee felt that the special need of this project for a tall building, the absence of traffic and parking problems, the employment it would generate and the fitness benefits it would bring outweighed the disadvantages of losing a strategic industrial land plot."

He added that council officers had been given delegated powers to approve the plans in the light of the consultation, should, as he put it, "no showstopper" issues emerge, but warned that the council would have to reconsider the case if they did.

Vernon West, chairman of Jump In, said he was surprised and delighted that the planning committee had given formal consent.

"Enfield residents and many of the councillors at the meeting were in favour of the park and I was deeply humbled by the support we received," he said.

Fitness benefits: Planning committee chairman Councillor Toby Simon

Barring any obstacles, he hoped construction work on the trampoline park, which would create 40 jobs, would begin in November.

Conservative councillor Nick Dines, who sits on the planning committee, but was unable to attend because of other commitments, had pressed for the council to make an exception to its policy for the trampoline park for as long as it is in existence.

"Enfield needs more facilities for families," he said.

"A lot of residents were in support of it and were writing in. I was surprised by the decision, but I think it's brilliant and I can't wait to take my daughter there."

Out in the rain: Women Against State Pension Inequality campaigners in Enfield Town

Pension inequality ‘grotesquely unfair’

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS fighting pensions inequality for women born in the 1950s braved the rain to get public support in Enfield last week.

The event was part of a national day of action by Women Against State Pension Inequality (WASPI), designed to draw attention to changes in retirement age which leave some women born in the 1950s facing a pensions shortfall.

It is calling for a bridging pension after the government accelerated moves to change women's retirement age from 60 to 65. WASPI said the move gave women little time to make alternative plans.

Joan Mansfield, who lives in Enfield, said: “It’s so unfair that they shortened the notice period for retirement age.” She said that some women faced a six or seven-year shortfall to try and make up.

Campaigners handed out leaflets and chatted to passers-by in Enfield Town before heading to the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield and North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton.

Mrs Mansfield said: “We’re talking to everybody. We’ve talked to students from Enfield Grammar School to make them aware and the stallholders at the market. It might be their mum or grandmother who’s affected.”

Labour councillor Vicki Pite said: “We are urging people to make an appointment with their MP or email them about the issue.”

She said women in low-paid jobs and those who were caring for children or elderly parents or running a home were affected as they had missed pensions contributions.

“Some women may have no income with a pension for a few years,” she added. “We just feel it’s grotesquely unfair.”

Councillors will be debating the issues at the civic centre on November 9. They want the government to change the transitional state pension arrangements for women born on or after April 6, 1951.

‘We’ll be watching you’

PROMINENT posters are being placed at fly-tipped grot spots in the borough warning offenders who dump bags of rubbish that they face hefty fines if caught.

It part of a new campaign by Enfield Council to drive home its zero-tolerance message that fly-tipping is unacceptable.

The posters carry the slogan We Are Watching You and put fly-tippers on notice that they will be traced and made to pay for blighting the borough’s streets.

“The posters send a clear message to those who think it is fine to mess up our borough – don’t, or face the consequences!” said Daniel Anderson, the council’s cabinet member for environment.

Every year £4.5million is spent on cleaning up the borough, prompting the council to remind residents that money could be spent more effectively on other public services.

“Residents expect to see clean and tidy streets and fly-tipping blights our borough and disrespects us all,” added Mr Anderson. “Enough already!”

As part of the campaign, an out-of-hours team of rubbish busters patrol the borough targeting fly-tipping hotspots on a daily basis.

Those caught fly-tipping will be issued with an on-the-spot fixed penalty notice of £200, with harsher fines reaching £50,000 and even a prison sentence, if convicted.

Mr Anderson visited Mount Pleasant, in Cockfosters, where a new sign had been put up after complaints of fly-tipping last week.

Don’t do it: Councillor Daniel Anderson with one of the posters

He added: “The council wants residents to be responsible and clean up after themselves by making sure they dispose of their waste properly instead of leaving it for others to clear up.”

The council offers a free furniture collection service via the British Heart Foundation on 0808 250 0030.

Electrical items can also be collected for free via 123recycleforfree on 020 7993 6554. Other items can be taken to the recycling centre in Barrowell Green, Winchmore Hill.

Residents are encouraged to report incidents of fly-tipping on the council’s website by visiting <https://new.enfield.gov.uk/>

MAYOR OF LONDON

Columnist

Terry
NevilleEnfield Council
Conservative group leader

THIS evening Enfield Council will debate an opposition priority business paper entitled "Democratic Deficit".

The paper targets the shameful way in which the Labour administration has systematically reduced proper scrutiny of its decisions and is denying proper accountability to the opposition and, more importantly the public they represent. There are numerous examples of this which will arise in the debate, but I believe it is sufficiently important that these issues are raised in the wider media.

The most recent example of this was the approval of the cycling plans for the A105 opposed by more than 1,600 residents. In that case the administration surpassed itself in its brazen disregard for democracy and accountability.

It held the scrutiny hearing on September 8, dismissed it without any discussion by members of the panel of the arguments for referring the decision back and then distributed pre-prepared letters to residents the next day advising that work would start on Monday, September 12!

Other examples are the limit now imposed on the number of questions members can raise at full council – a total of 20 per meeting. The length of speeches has been reduced from five to three and, in some cases, two minutes, all designed to limit the ability of the opposition to hold the Labour council to account on behalf of the electorate.

In summary, the council is less accessible and less accountable. Moreover, decisions that affect residents' everyday lives are not subject to real scrutiny. It is, in short, a public scandal, presided over by a broken party.

How about showing a little bit of organisation?

I READ with interest Edward Smith's comments on the library service ("Library move raises doubts", Advertiser, August 31).

It's not all about money, but about managing resources properly. Why, for example, can we not have a section at the entrance of the library which displays all new book and CD stock? Even a list (which we used to have) would be useful.

Recently, I went to the main library in the town centre and asked for an index of last year's Which? magazine. In the past all Which? magazines were put in binders and folders. Now tattered and disorganised, they are put in an open-topped in-tray box.

A lack of organisation?: Enfield Town Library

This waste is used to generate electricity

MR Edis ("They're throwing cash in a hole in the ground", Advertiser, September 7) argues that a fortnightly bin collection is not practical and that the options consulted upon were ridiculous, so let me explain the rationale behind them.

As a result of central government cuts, Enfield Council has, since 2010, been forced to slash £118million from its budget and now has to find a further £56m of cuts by 2020, and this is on top of a rising and ageing population.

Both options consulted upon – the other being a charged weekly service – would achieve savings of at least £400k per annum.

The suggestion Mr Edis makes of a seasonal collection was indeed considered, but alas rejected on the basis that it would only achieve a fraction of those savings.

I can also reassure Mr Edis that evidence from elsewhere, where such changes have been introduced, shows that residents do not resort to burning garden waste, but use other alternatives, such as composting or using local recycling facilities.

Regarding black bin collections, which will remain weekly, Mr Edis is incorrect. The waste is not sent to landfill, but collected and disposed of at the Edmonton Eco Park, where it is used to generate electricity.

Indeed, the council is at the forefront here, planning to capture the heat from this facility with the view to providing sustainable, low-cost energy for residents via our Lee Valley Heat Network.

Furthermore, we certainly do not support bin taxes and instead are focusing our resources on encouraging people to recycle using our excellent kerbside service and Barrowell Green.

Mr Edis should also note that fortnightly green bin collections are already standard across many London boroughs.

Indeed, the following Conservative authorities offer a fortnightly charged service – Richmond, Kingston, Bexley and Bromley.

Therefore, Mr Edis would be best advised to direct his ire at the Conservative government rather than this dynamic, forward-thinking Labour council.

Councillor Daniel Anderson
Cabinet member for environment
Southgate Green Ward

□ FURTHER to Mr Edis's letter, I write in support of his suggestions.

I am a keen gardener and fill my green bin when shrubs need pruning and the garden needs tidying at different times of the year.

Reducing green bin collections during the winter months is acceptable, but the borough consultation/ballot is flawed because there are more non-gardeners than gardeners and the outcome is a foregone conclusion.

The council is offering a free weekly collection of food waste if we pay £60 a year for a weekly collection of garden waste, so how can food waste be free?

Furthermore, the council's 2015 recycling newsletter boasted a saving of £3m recycling waste from the blue and green bins. Reducing green bin collections will reduce this financial benefit.

Pavements are for pedestrians

AS a faithful reader of your paper, let me acquaint Mr King ("Rat run is just a shortcut – why shouldn't motorists use them?", Advertiser, September 14) with a key reason: to make life tenable for the residents of streets not built for traffic.

People bring up kids in streets, chat to neighbours, walk/bike along them to work and play.

Next he turns his lust to drive on to the reduction of pavement space to make bus stops and car parking. Pavements are for people, to give access to homes and shops, for social communication – not a place to park a ton or two of metal – especially as many, perhaps most, of the people who want to park could probably have walked, biked or used a bus.

By comparison with other forms of urban travel, cars need an enormous amount of space, and although per capita car ownership is dropping, London's population is increasing and with it the number of cars. That can't go on.

In future people will have to walk more often, cycle more, get on buses instead of driving. He should try it. There are health benefits and in the long run it must happen anyway.

David Hughes
Conway Road,
Palmers Green

Who knows if this will work?

I AM resigned to the cycle lane project going ahead – it is a component of the Great Conspiracy.

It would lessen the dismay if evangelists would stop claiming that the schemes are good for all. Good for an unknown number of cyclists, yes, but the disabled will be seriously disadvantaged as will the unfortunates who live on the cycle routes.

Regarding a personal issue, I still have yet to figure out how I can alight from a bus into a stream of speeding cyclists without being knocked down.

Could it be made illegal to overtake buses on the inside when at a bus stop?

Neither side can predict whether or not there will be traffic jams or if shops and other businesses will suffer. Unfortunately, we have to wait to find out.

Village plan wins bishop's seal of approval

Honoured: Michael Polledri with the Rt Rev Richard Chartres, the Bishop of London

By Dave Speck

dave.speck@nlhnews.co.uk

THE man behind the building of The Hale Village residential development in Tottenham has received an award from the Bishop of London – after he included a church within the development.

Michael Polledri, who is chairman and founder of property developer Lee Valley Estates, included the church and adjacent community facilities as part of the original planning application for The Hale Village.

It will be the first new Anglican church in London for 40 years and facilities will include a 24-space nursery, a café and two community halls.

Mr Polledri received the St Mellitus Medal from the Rt Rev Richard Chartres, the Bishop of London.

He said: "It's a huge honour to receive this medal. To help create such an important community facility and service is a great privilege."

The Hale is said to be Haringey Council's biggest development project since the 1960s and comprises 870 new "green" homes as well as accommodation for 1,200 students.

There's also a high street with shops and offices and even a kidney and diabetes unit.

Sue Laybourne, a friend of Mr Polledri, said: "His vision for Hale Village, when it was conceived in 2008, was to create a new urban village with community at its heart. The Engine Room community centre, part of the new church offering, has been operating from temporary premises in Hale Village for two years."

Mr Polledri was awarded an MBE in 2010 in recognition of his services to enterprise and regeneration in north London.

The medal is named after St Mellitus, the Bishop of London, who re-founded the diocese in the year 604, and is awarded in recognition of substantial contribution to the Christian life of London.

The new church was recently handed over to the diocese for fitting out and will open its doors for services in the next few months

Time to transform eye health

SPECSAVERS is backing National Eye Health Week by urging people to have regular eye tests to help maintain and protect their sight.

Recent research for Specsavers and the Royal National Institute of Blind People,¹ suggests nearly 14 million people in the UK are not having their eyes tested every two years as recommended by optometrists. Some 30% claimed it was because they think there is nothing wrong with their eyes, while 29% said they just don't have the time.

Specsavers recently announced a new partnership with Royal National Institute of Blind People to support its vital work. The relationship includes a significant multimedia investment to help educate people about eye health and to raise awareness of how regular eye tests can help reduce preventable sight loss.

Dr Nigel Best, Specsavers' clinical spokesperson, said: 'We're reaching out to the people of the UK to encourage them to take better care of their own and their family's sight.

'A routine eye test not only helps detect any problems with your vision, it can also check for more general health problems and a wide range of conditions that can lead to sight loss if not treated in time. Early detection and timely intervention is critical to managing any eye health condition.'

At present there are more than two million people in the UK living with sight loss, which has a significant impact on their daily lives.

Dr Best added: 'Incredibly nearly half of sight loss cases are preventable, regular eye tests could pick up the warning signs before it's too late.'

The advice to have regular eye tests also applies to people with existing prescriptions who don't think their vision has changed. The research revealed that many spectacle and contact lens wearers ignore warnings that wearing the wrong prescription could cause symptoms such as headaches and dizziness.

Dr Best said: 'People should have their eyes tested every two years or more frequently if recommended. Opticians prescribe glasses or contact lenses based upon precise testing at a given time so if that information is not regularly checked and updated there can be severe consequences. Spectacle wearers could experience unnecessary discomfort while contact lens wearers could risk damaging their eyes.'

The research also revealed parents across the country are putting off taking their children to the optician with a surprising 27% of parents with children aged 3 to 16 can't recall taking, or have never taken their child for an eye test.

As part of National Eye Health Week Specsavers stores up and down the UK are raising vital funds for RNIB to allow them to deliver much needed support for people affected by vision loss.

Sally Harvey, acting chief executive of RNIB, says: 'More than two million people in the UK are living with sight loss that has a significant impact on their daily lives. However, of those two million, more than a third of people would notice a huge improvement in their vision simply by wearing the correct prescription glasses or contact lenses. We would encourage anyone who has put off going for an eye test to book one at the earliest opportunity.'

Specsavers recently launched a children's vision screening campaign making screening software available free of charge to all schools in the UK. The equipment – School Screener EZ – is unique in being suitable for screening the vision of children aged four to 16 and includes a colour vision test. Designed to be simply operated by teachers or classroom assistants, the screener can be used in 35 different languages. Schools can register to receive their free kit at screeningforschools.com

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Michelle remembers refugee relative for Chickenshed role

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE story of refugees who fled the Nazis for the safety of Britain has a special personal relevance for Michelle Collins as one of her relatives was among them.

The former EastEnders star is in the middle of rehearsals for a play at Chickenshed about the children on the Kindertransport, which brought them to this country but separated them from their families.

She revealed that her ancestor was a refugee in the 1930s as the clouds of Nazism gathered across Europe.

"He came from Belgium, from Antwerp, and was taken in by the church," she said. "It really brings it home."

Her arrival at Chickenshed, in Chase Side, Southgate, signals a new departure for the inclusive theatre company to invite established actors and household names to work there.

However, the actress, who shot to fame as Cindy Beale in the BBC TV soap, started her career at 18 with the theatre's artistic director Lou Stein.

Ms Collins cut her teeth at the Gate Theatre, in west London, under Mr Stein's direction.

She's also familiar with the theatre as her daughter Maia spent some time there.

She said: "It feels like a big family. It's a special place."

Mr Stein said he hoped that working with established actors would bring Chickenshed to a new audience.

"To me the biggest success is the number of new people through the door."

Ms Collins says she is learning from aspiring actors on the Chickenshed training programme as well as passing on tips she has learnt along the way.

She plays Evelyn, a woman torn between forgetting her experience on the Kindertransport and the life she left behind and building a new life, but still feeling angry with her mother who sent her far away from home.

The cast met former Kindertransportees to help prepare for their roles and Ms Collins also spoke to an 85-year-old woman who has rarely talked about that time.

"That was really interesting talking to her," she said. "I have to try and imagine what it was like."

"One of the most touching things she said to me was, 'I remember opening the door to the two SS men who took my father away.'"

Mr Stein said: "There are resonances with what's happening now. It has made me think how many of those Syrian kids want to be with their families."

Ms Collins added: "I think what's really worrying is we are losing the ability to be shocked at what is going on in the world. I hope this makes people think."

Kindertransport runs from September 27 until October 22. The Chickenshed box office can be contacted on 020 8292 9222.

All rural life is here

THOUSANDS of residents sampled the rural delights of life down on the farm in Enfield on Saturday.

City farms and community gardens from 11 London boroughs brought the countryside to "townies" at the 18th City Harvest Festival held at Capel Manor Gardens.

The horticultural college, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, hosted the annual event, which is organised by the London City Farms and Community Gardens Association.

There was a bumper crop of attractions featuring all types of farmyard livestock – cows, sheep, goats, guinea pigs, rabbits, chickens and geese and even miniature donkeys. In common with bigger agricultural shows, there were competitions for the best breeds as well as rosettes for the best and biggest fruit and vegetables grown.

A village blacksmith and forge added to the rustic atmosphere and there were displays of beekeeping while visitors could try out traditional country crafts such as spinning and pottery and even how to milk a cow.

"The event showcases the educational and neighbourhood achievements of urban farms and garden projects," added show facilitator Catherine Miller.

COMPETITION

Two pairs of tickets up for grabs

Ts & Cs:

■ Two readers will win a pair of band A tickets, valid for Monday to Thursday performances from October 27 to November 10, 2016, subject to availability.
■ No cash alternative. Travel and accommodation not included.
■ Age recommendation: 15+ - contains nudity and scenes of a sexual nature.

Laughter's just the ticket

ELEANOR wants a child. Richard would oblige if he could, but he's too busy running the Dead Funny Society.

When British comedy heroes Frankie Howerd and Benny Hill turn up their toes in the same week, the society gathers for a celebration of hilarity and laughter. But Eleanor's grin masks a grimace.

When your marriage is deader than either Morecambe or Wise, it's hard to see the funny side of things.

Terry Johnson's "painfully funny and funnily painful" (The Times) comedy, Dead Funny returns for a strictly limited season with Katherine Parkinson (The IT Crowd, In

The Club, Humans), Steve Pemberton (The League of Gentlemen, Benidorm, Whitechapel), Ralf Little (The Royle Family, Two Pints of Lager and a Packet of Crisps, The Cafe), Emily Berrington (The Inbetweeners 2, Humans, 24) and Rufus Jones (W1A, Hunderby, The Casual Vacancy).

Dead Funny is playing at the Vaudeville Theatre on the Strand from October 27 - and we have two pairs of tickets to give away.

For your chance to be a winner, just answer this simple question:

● What Channel 4 show did Katherine Parkinson feature in?

- a) The IT Crowd
- b) The CB Crowd
- c) The EG Crowd

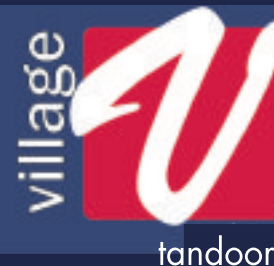

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Dead Funny Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Dead Funny" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday, September 29.

And even if you don't win, you can still book tickets now (from £15) by calling 0330 333 4814 or visit DeadFunnythePlay.com

Millfield's wartime bunker in weekend spotlight

Opening up: The air raid shelter at Millfield House, above, and, below, the King George V pumping station

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

VISITORS were given a glimpse into an underground air raid shelter used during World War II as part of an Open House event across Enfield at the weekend.

They were allowed to peer into the wartime bunker in the grounds of Millfield Arts Centre, in Silver Street, Edmonton, but were not allowed inside it for safety reasons.

It is one of three bunkers which provided a shelter from bombing raids for epileptic patients at a hospital which was using a former Victorian workhouse which formerly stood on the site.

However, only one of the shelters exists in its original form. The others have been filled in because they were deemed unsafe.

"When visitors see the bunkers, they are quite shocked to imagine how awful it must have been to walk down into them," explained Paul Everitt, Millfield's head of culture, sport and arts.

"The generation who remember the bunkers and who may have even used them are disappearing, so it's important to preserve the memories so people don't forget that part of history."

The building which now houses the Millfield centre was used as a workhouse for children before the war.

Visitors were given an information leaflet about the house's history and staff were on hand to answer any questions.

Other Open House events in the borough included tours of the King George V pumping station, in Enfield Lock, and Lee Valley Athletics Centre, in Edmonton.

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Introducing the Head

Lieutenant Ellis Way Cheshunt
Herts EN7 5FB Tel: 01992 629124

I have been Head Teacher of St Mary's since April 2004 and am very proud of the excellent reputation St Mary's has for high standards of education and support for students that is reflected in an 'outstanding' judgement in our SIAMS Church inspection in May 2015, which followed a 'good' judgement from Ofsted in January 2015.

St Mary's is recognised for its inclusion agenda and diverse community. Students, staff and visitors speak about the positive welcome that they receive and how calm and business-like the school feels. The school has a strong commitment to ensuring that every child can access a high quality education provision, designed to meet their needs whilst providing every opportunity to succeed. 99% of our students tell us that they are happy at St Mary's and that they feel safe. 98% of our parents/carers tell us that the School keeps their child safe.

The School offers a curriculum tailored to support the highest of aspirations for our students. The curriculum has both vocational and academic options as well as an extensive programme of extracurricular activities. Students enjoy participating in a wide range of activities that include trips to France, Italy, Austria and the USA. Clubs include a range of sports such as archery, football, rounders, basketball and athletics. There are also opportunities to be part of annual productions, musical festivals and Design & Technology exhibitions. Supervised Study Clubs each day are available each day until 5pm.

St Mary's runs a range of stretch and challenge activities such as Digital leaders and Computing Clubs that involve trips to universities and other schools where students will take on team and individual challenges. St Mary's has a number of academy programmes that are for students who have a particular interest or career aspiration in Performing Arts, Football, Basketball or Business & Enterprise. Each academy provides the opportunity for students to access a range of courses, qualifications and enrichment activities throughout the School.

Our fantastic new buildings on Lieutenant Ellis Way provide an excellent learning environment with a sports hall, gymnasium, drama studios, photographic suite, extensive playing fields and a dedicated sixth form centre. In addition each classroom has interactive technology, and the IT/computing facilities include an Apple Mac suite for media and music technology.

The school genuinely serves the local community by being the Lead School for our Local School's Partnership and the Broxbourne West Childrens Centre Group. These groups provide services to support families with children aged 0-19 that attend St Mary's and local primary schools.

We are currently offering open mornings for post 16 and Year 5 & 6 students for Sept 2017 & 2018 entry.

Please ring the school on 01992 629 124 to reserve a place.

We look forward to meeting you at St Mary's soon.

The Latymer School
Haselbury Road, London N9 9TN
Tel: 020 8807 4057

As I start my second year at The Latymer School I feel immensely privileged to head this splendid school and to be part of this vibrant community.

We are a grammar school and as such achieve outstanding results. If you enjoy learning, you want to achieve and to go to the best universities, then you must come here. Staff at Latymer make sure you are supported to achieve the very best you can and meet your academic goals. However, studying at Latymer is not just about academic success. The varied and exciting opportunities available to our students are first class. There is a strong tradition of music, drama and sport here and every chance to take part in physical activities, in shows, play in the orchestra, sing in the choir or be part of the backstage team. We run trips to many places, from Iceland to Marrakesh and aim to provide a wide range of educational opportunities outside the classroom.

The school was founded in 1624 by Edward Latymer who had the interests of the 'poore boys of Edmonton' at heart. We have upheld his vision as a caring and supportive school and our charity work extends around the world. If you would like to know more about The Latymer School, I would encourage you to visit our website www.latymer.co.uk and I look forward to welcoming you to our school.

What's on and what's coming

Bosom buddies: Ray Laidlaw, left, and Billy Mitchell in concert and, inset, in more relaxed surroundings

Geordie boys on tour

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A STRING of catchy, memorable singalong tunes earned Geordie group Lindisfarne international acclaim in the 1970s, quickly establishing them as one of British rock's most original bands.

Unforgettable hits including Lady Eleanor, Meet Me on The Corner, Fog on The Tyne and Run for Home helped make them legends in their native North East.

Their pioneering sound, combining acoustic instruments including mandolin and fiddle with their electric blues roots cut through the prevailing pop and glam rock sounds of the time.

Fast forward almost 50 years and the Tyneside outfit's musical legacy still stands the test of time with their songs continuing to receive extensive radio airplay even today.

And the band's legacy is explored in an entertaining show, The Lindisfarne Story, at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre, in Silver Street, on Friday night.

Presented by the band's original drummer Ray Laidlaw and a later addition to the line-up, Billy Mitchell, it is part live music, part documentary as it charts the history of Lindisfarne from humble beginnings in North Shields to worldwide success.

Archive footage and photographs are woven into the narrative as the duo share humorous anecdotes and behind-the-scenes stories while performing acoustic versions of the band's classic songs.

"Billy and I have been bosom buddies since 1966, so he's had the inside track on Lindisfarne from its formative days until the Mk 3 version of the group retired in 2003," said Ray.

"We tell the Lindisfarne story through words, music and a fantastic selection of archive songs and pictures.

"It's a product of 50 years of friendship and musical collaboration that tells the tale of a bunch of Geordie lads who followed their dream and shared a lot of laughs, a few tears and a barrow load of fantastic music."

Guns blazing in the wild west

Trigger happy: Bounty hunter Sam Chisolm (Denzel Washington)

THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN (12A, 133 mins)

TOWARDS the bullet-riddled conclusion of director Antoine Fuqua's stylish western remake, a voiceover dreamily recalls the self-sacrifice and heroism of seven righteous men, who laid down their lives for a town in jeopardy.

"It was magnificent," gushes the film's narrator.

That's going a little far.

In its bombastic latest incarnation, The Magnificent Seven lassos a stellar cast and a rollicking soundtrack composed by the late, great James Horner and completed by his good friend Simon Franglen.

Action sequences are orchestrated at a canter and Richard Wenk and Nic Pizzolatto's script introduces some moments of bone dry humour in between the frenetic shoot-outs.

It's an entertaining ride, but Fuqua struggles to distinguish his battle royale between morally conflicted men from the countless westerns that have trotted down this same narrative trail.

Oscar winner Denzel Washington, who won his golden statuette in Fuqua's 2001 film Training Day, is a swaggering, physically imposing hero, driven to his suicidal actions in the name of retribution.

He is matched, verbal blow for blow, by Peters Sarsgaard as the glowering villain of the piece, who demonstrates his wanton disregard for human life in a brutal, unflinching opening act.

The year is 1879 and the scars of the American Civil War are yet to heal.

The God-fearing folk of Rose Creek seek solace in church, but the spiritual peace is shattered by the arrival of greedy industrialist Bartholomew Bogue (Sarsgaard) and his goons, who intend to drive families out of their homes.

"Twenty dollars for each parcel of land," Bogue tells the enraged congregation, shooting dead several dissenters, including faithful husband Matthew Cullen (Matt Bomer).

Grieving widow Emma Cullen (Haley Bennett) and her friend Teddy (Luke Grimes) canter to neighbouring Amador City to enlist the services of bounty hunter Sam Chisolm (Washington) to kill Bogue.

"You don't need a bounty hunter, you need an army," scoffs Chisolm, who has crossed paths with the industrialist before.

Moved by Emma's tearful plight, the gunslinger corrals six men of dubious character to wage war in Rose Creek – compulsive gambler Josh Farraday (Chris Pratt), sharpshooter Goodnight Robicheaux (Ethan Hawke), assassin Billy Rocks (Byung-hun Lee), tracker Jack Horne (Vincent D'Onofrio), Mexican outlaw Vasquez (Manuel Garcia-Rulfo) and Comanche warrior Red Harvest (Martin Sensmeier).

The scene is set for a routin', tootin' showdown between the rival factions.

The Magnificent Seven rests comfortably on the shoulders of Washington and his co-stars.

Pratt continues to pigeon-hole himself as Hollywood's favourite wisecracking action man and Hawke and Lee catalyse a fascinating and flawed double act.

Sarsgaard chews scenery as if it were tobacco.

The script is peppered with well-heeled one-liners – "Fame is a sarcophagus" – and the final assault on a besieged Rose Creek packs in sufficient excitement to warrant staying in the saddle for 133 minutes.

Estate Agent v Auctioneer

Why choose an Estate Agent over an Auctioneer when selling?

Unless the property in question is structurally unsound and unmortgageable, then a reputable Estate Agent should always be the first port of call. It is highly likely that an owner/occupier will pay more for your house than a Property Speculator at an Auction House, particularly now that investors are being charged 3% extra stamp duty.

At Barnfields we do arrange open day viewings for properties where there is a high demand. We then gather the offers made and discuss them with the owner/client pointing out each applicants position and the merits of their offer, so that the right buyer is selected. You may have to wait a little longer for the sale to go through whilst a mortgage is being arranged but you are almost certain to achieve a much higher selling price than at an auction sale.

For more details and further advice on our sales strategy, phone Malcolm Barnfield, Michael Richardson or Lucy Haydon-Knowell with almost 100 years experience between them.

Deputy Mayor of Enfield Councillor Christine Hamilton officially launches local sales and lettings agency Cottage Fields

Celebrating the opening of Cottage Fields new Enfield branch in Lancaster Road, Deputy Mayor of Enfield, Councillor Christine Hamilton cut the ribbon last Friday and wished Cihan (Chris) Acıyan, his business partners and team success for the future.

After acquiring the shop and renovating it earlier this year, Cottage Fields, an independent and family run residential sales and lettings agency, opened their doors of their new premises in July.

In the last two months they have been successful in standing out in their local property market and acquiring customers who have properties to sell or to rent. They believe their success is based on the teams' extensive local knowledge combined with the service they provide.

Local shop, local people, local knowledge

All born at Chase Farm Hospital, the four directors and five staff have an extensive knowledge base across all disciplines and know all about Enfield, so they can speak with authority about sales and lettings in the area.

The business consists of four directors: Chris, brother Kurt and wife Maria with George Georgiou, a long-term friend, and five staff: Ilshad and Ismail Khodabocus, Faith Rutherford, Brendan O'Connor and Tarik Acıyan.

Established in 2012, Cottage Fields was first located in Waltham Abbey and they ran a successful office with a wide client base that extended geographically to include Enfield. Their decision was to capitalise on the potential of sales and lettings in Enfield by moving to the area, but retaining their current clients. They have future plans to expand by opening their next shop in Barnet/ Southgate by 2019, based on the demand they have experience to-date.

It's all about service

"It's all about service," comments Chris. "We are an enthusiastic, friendly team, with a modern approach. We have a passion for providing all the correct information – whether it's about the legal requirements of being a landlord or how to get the best price for selling a property and we provide a more personal service dedicating Property Managers to each Landlord. We are planning on holding individual property workshops, so that we can help local people and provide independent and impartial advice."

"But most of all we don't just think of houses as bricks and mortar, we think of homes, places of comfort, places for growing families and being part of the local community. Whether we are selling or letting, we are diligent in our approach to detail and we actively try to provide the best possible service to every person who walks through our door."

Deputy Mayor of Enfield Councillor Christine Hamilton officially opens Cottage Fields shop at 135 Lancaster Road, Enfield and congratulates Chris Acıyan, Director, partners and team on their success.

Refined and comfortable

By Simon Davis

THE second-generation Panamera Turbo has been completely reworked from the ground up, featuring improved styling, a more powerful engine and cutting-edge technology.

The new Panamera's proportions have increased over those of the first-generation model. The car is now 34mm longer, 6mm wider and 5mm taller, while the wheelbase has been lengthened by 30mm.

Under the bonnet, Porsche has fitted a new 4.0-litre, twin-turbo V8, which powers all four wheels through an eight-speed, twin-clutch PDK gearbox. While the Turbo's powerplant may have shrunk in comparison with its predecessor's 4.8-litre V8, power is up 30bhp to 543bhp.

The Panamera Turbo now has more pulling power than ever before, too, with the new car producing 770Nm compared with the old model's 700Nm.

Like any vehicle that caters towards the premium end of the saloon car section of the market, the Panamera will certainly not leave you wanting for space on the inside.

Don't be fooled into thinking that the 20mm reduction in roofline height above the rear passenger compartment has infringed on space as Porsche claims there is now more headroom available for backseat passengers than ever before.

This is a win-win situation as the lower roofline makes the car appear longer, lower and, ultimately, better-looking. Rear passengers also won't feel short-changed when it comes to headroom. As you would expect from a car of this nature, rear legroom is plentiful.

From a practicality point of view, the Panamera has been improved yet again. Boot space is up by 50 litres over the old model, reaching 495 litres with the rear seats in place.

Fold the back seats down and this

One thing rapidly becomes apparent the moment you set off in the Panamera Turbo – the huge amount of power the 4.0-litre V8 is capable of putting down on the road. Producing 543bhp, this new engine helps shift the car from 0-62mph in 3.8 seconds and on to a top speed of 190mph.

In a car this vast, experiencing such acceleration feels rather surreal, yet incredibly addictive. There is the tiniest amount of turbo lag when you first plant your foot, but as soon as the turbos kick in you'll find yourself rocketing up to speeds that certainly wouldn't please the local constabulary. While the V8 doesn't make the angriest or most exciting noise in the world, at the end of the day it's still a V8, which means it sounds good – if a little reserved.

The optional Sport Response button is also a great toy to play with, summing the Panamera's maximum power for 20 seconds. Once pressed, the engine's response is dramatically sharpened as is the shift ferocity of the PDK gearbox. This all adds up to you being thrown into the back of the comfortable, supportive seats.

Through the corners, all-wheel drive, coupled with the optional active rear-wheel steering system we had on our test car, means you never really feel as if you're going to run out of grip. The car's steering is also well-weighted and gives a pleasing amount of feedback.

Trundling around town, the Panamera is incredibly refined and comfortable, with road noise kept to a minimum. Put the car on the motorway and it's much the same story.

This is a great cruising machine, with wind noise being the only intrusion you might notice as you push on. That said, even at speeds of up to 125mph on the German autobahn you still won't find the increased wind noise all that annoying.

ALLI'S DELIGHT AT SIGNING NEW DEAL

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

DELE ALLI is hoping to continue his rapid rise after becoming the latest key player to agree a new long-term deal with Tottenham Hotspur.

The 20-year-old midfielder signed for Spurs from MK Dons in January 2015, but was loaned back to his former club for the remainder of the season and only arrived at White Hart Lane at the end of that campaign.

Alli wasted little time in making an impact at Spurs and was rewarded for that with an improved contract last season.

However, the England international has continued to progress since then and has now agreed another new deal which will keep him at Tottenham until 2022 – following in the footsteps of Eric Dier and Christian Eriksen by committing his future to the club.

He said: "I'm happy to be at this club and I can't thank the manager and all the staff enough for everything they've done for me, and the fans – they've been right behind me since I signed. Hopefully there are lots of good times to come."

"It's happened so quickly, starting at Tottenham, playing for England. It's been a crazy year for me and there are so many people I have to thank. It still feels like a dream."

"I have to keep trying to improve. I can't get carried away. I have to keep trying to make each year better than the last. This will be a tough year to top, but hopefully I can do it."

"I've tried to grow up. I've got great people around me to help keep my feet on the ground, and I'll keep working hard on my football and keep trying to improve."

"The hard work isn't going to stop here. I have to keep working hard and keep fighting for my place in this team."

Meanwhile, Spurs skipper Hugo Lloris is hopeful that star striker Harry Kane will not be ruled out of action for too long.

Kane picked up an ankle injury after scoring Tottenham's winner against Sunderland in the Premier League on Sunday and, having left the ground on crutches, he underwent scans on Monday in order to discover the extent of the injury.

Lloris is well aware that Kane will be missed if he does face a lengthy spell on the sidelines, but is optimistic that Spurs have the depth in the squad to cope while the striker is out of action.

"We just hope it's not too bad," he said. "It is true that, if you look at the images, we can be a bit worried, but all the medical staff are going to try to bring him back as soon as possible."

"We have a competitive team and are fully confident in every player. When one player is missing, it gives an opportunity to another player to bring his skills, energy and quality."

"This is the story of the season, and that's why we need all the players involved to be committed to the club, because when the manager needs you, you need to respond well."

Staying at Spurs: Dele Alli has put pen to paper on a new deal which will keep him at Tottenham until 2022

Stuttering Borough suffer another loss

HARINGEY BOROUGH'S slump in form continued on Saturday when they were beaten 2-1 at Bowers and Pitsea in Ryman League Division One North.

Having begun the season in positive fashion, Borough have now lost their last five matches in all competitions – including a 4-1 reversal at AFC Hornchurch in the league cup on Tuesday last week – to slip to 17th in the table, just a point clear of the bottom three.

Saturday's match saw little incident of note in the opening exchanges – with the visitors having the first attempt on goal in the tenth minute when Jorge Dtassi-Sambu cut inside and unleashed a shot which was comfortably saved by Bowers keeper Martyn Guest.

But it was the hosts who generally looked the more dangerous side and they made the breakthrough on 32 minutes, Bradley Warner picking himself up to score from the spot after he had been fouled in the box.

Tom Hine headed Warner's cross wide and had another shot saved as the hosts threatened to take control of the match, but Borough almost grabbed an equaliser on 52 minutes when Daniel Aristidou's cross was met by Joshua Willer, who was thwarted by a stunning one-handed save from Guest.

The visitors stepped up the pace at the start of the second half and were rewarded with an equaliser within six minutes of the restart as Ralston Gabriel jinked his way into the box and drilled a shot low into the net.

Adrian Markus and Gabriel both fired over and Rakim Richards had a shot saved as Borough continued to press, but Bowers still created chances of their own and Alfie Hilton was thwarted by visiting keeper Harry Palmer.

With the visitors desperately searching for a winner, Gabriel had a shot tipped over and Markus headed wide – but the goal would not come and it was Bowers who secured maximum points in stoppage time as Fahad Nyanja fired into an empty net after Warner's initial effort had come back off the post.

Haringey Borough host VCD Athletic on Saturday (3pm), before entertaining Ware on Monday (7.45pm).

Skolars set their sights on promotion

THE London Skolars have set their sights on securing promotion in 2017 following their successful campaign in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One.

Having been languishing in the lower reaches of the table for several years, the Skolars were much-improved this season and finished the regular campaign in eighth position to secure a place in the Super Eights and give them a chance of promotion.

The Skolars struggled to make an impact in the Super Eights, but this has not dented their ambitions and confidence is high at the club that they will be able to build on their exploits next time around.

"The year 2016 had been a good one for the club all round," said a club spokesman. "At first-team level the club has continued to progress, enjoying one of their best seasons in some considerable time."

"After a couple of difficult seasons, head coach Jermaine Coleman was hired midway through the 2015 campaign. He and his staff injected fresh ideas into the team and these started to pay dividends towards the end of that year. With a full pre-season to instill his ideologies on how rugby league should be played, the club has kicked on this year."

"The Super Eights did not go to plan for the Skolars, with injuries beginning to take their toll. Nevertheless, what is certain is that it proved a valuable learning experience in the consistency required to be a promotion-winning team."

"It has made the team hungry to push for promotion in 2017, which for a team as relatively young as the Skolars and with such obvious potential, is feasible."

Meanwhile, the London Skolars held their annual awards ceremony on Friday night, with Ryan Chester being named the coaches' player of the year.

Sam Nash won the directors' player of the year prize, while Dave Williams was the players' player of the year.

Captain Williams, John Paxton and Joe Price were also rewarded after reaching 100 appearances for the club during the season.

FREE Access to University Level 3 Courses at CONEL

Complete your Level 3 for FREE and progress to university!

If you take out an Advanced Learning Loan for your Access to University course - and go on to complete your degree course - you won't have to repay your Advanced Learning Loan!

An Access course takes one year to complete and normally costs about £4,000 – so it's a great saving to make.

The Access courses we offer at CONEL are:

Access to Computing | Access to Engineering | Access to Nursing | Access to Science

“My Advanced learning loan was worth every penny, I'm a student midwife now!”

Julie Rookley | Access to Nursing

“I achieved First Class Honours in my Biomedical Science degree and I am now a PhD student in prostate cancer.”

Dona Mannaperuma | Access to Science

“I'm studying Mechanical Engineering at Bradford University. I'll complete my degree in four years and spend one year in industry.”

John Alimi | Access to Engineering

“No other college offered such an excellent Access course. The course gave me just what I needed to get to King's College and progress into a job. I've got nothing but praise for the College and its teachers.”

Charlie Baker | Access to IT

Your Access course will be made up of around 20 modules covering all the knowledge, research and essay-writing skills you need for your first year at university.

You may already have your 90-credit Level 3 Diploma and this combined with an Access Course will make you an even more attractive candidate for many universities.

To find out more about an Advanced Learning Loan and Access to University courses come into Enrolment this week.
